SOLDIERS
SEE CIRCUS

S. Sheffield Harris & soldiers, officers and their wives and children saw the circus in their amusement hall last night. They enjoyed it better than anything they have ever had there, said Lieutenant Christy publicly, at the conclusion of the performance, when he invited the circus people to return and give another show next Sunday night. The performers were entertained at dinner before the show by the soldiers.

Although the circus people took down only six acts on the special train run for them, they gave a three-hour show that was composed to a great extent of acrobatic acts, which seemed to be enjoyed more than any other part by the soldiers.

The Great American Show has arranged an entirely different show for this week. Beginning with this evening's performance and continuing throughout the week, eight acts entirely different from those of last week will be presented in the big tent at Aala Park. The program for this week will be found in another column of today's Bulletin.

GOOD RECREATION

There is an amusement bill of fare prepared for the week opening at the Novelty Theater tonight that will make this small but popular house one with the more pretentious houses. The management has been successful in securing the Barkley Company, a crowd of funmakers that would make good on any stage in Honolulu. These great funmakers have scheduled "The Man Outside," or "Oh, You Samie," for their Honolulu opening. This sketch is one continuous round of laughter courses. It is a sure cure for a poor appetite or all the other ailments that come as a result of not laughing. Join the throng and be made happy tonight while these laughmakers are serving their regular fare. Wise & Milton are not to be outside, either, in the laugh-making game, and they have prepared a bill that runs something like this, "Is the Ghost In?" or "If He Comes In, I'm Going Out." It is a certain scream.

SAVOY ENGAGES MORE TALENT FOR SEASON

Satisfactory box receipts during the past week, marking the success of the opening season of the Watan-Magrath Comedy company and Dot Raymond, the cute little singer, have impelled the management to add new attractions to their bill, and tonight the program will be an unusually fine one.

Ed Wida, one of the most successful eccentric German comedians, with music as his specialty, will make his first appearance before the Savoy audiences. Wida is not only a fine musician, but the comedy he creates in the use of the many instruments at his command, keeps the audience in a roar of laughter. His appearance is that of the leader of a not tooled Cherman band, and the odd things from which he gets music is a decidedly interesting stunt.

One of his best features is the Teddy Bear orchestra. With these favorite playthings of children he directs a concert which is decidedly unique. The sweetest music comes from a lyre whose strings are glass, and the tone is marvelously clear and bell-like. He plays on other instruments ranging from a saxophone to an oboe. And throughout his stunt he keeps up a running fire of jokes.

George Stanley, a ballad singer, who made his initial appearance at the Savoy on Saturday night, is one of the week's new offerings. He made a hit Saturday and drew unstinted and generous applause. He is a decidedly valuable acquisition to the Savoy attractions.

The Watan-Magrath Comedy company is putting on tonight one of its funniest farce comedy sketches, titled "Roasted Lovers," in which Magrath appears as usual in one of his inimitable darky makeups. The comedy is good, refreshing and mirth-provoking. Dot Raymond, the cute little singer has an entirely new set of songs which are cleverly interpreted. Since her initial hit she has kept the favor of the Savoy's patrons.

The moving picture films, all new, are excellent, and Prof. Anderson's band renders a well-chosen program of popular music.

NEW ACT AT PARK.

Wilson and Morris, Australians, with a great stage reputation for laugh getters, will open at the Park tonight in a laughing acrobatic act that has made half the residents of the Antipodes forget their sorrows. In spite of the many acts that have been in Honolulu in the last twelve months there has none of any particular quality that depended on pantomime for its fun. Wilson and Morris are experts in the use of this ancient form of stirring up the laughing inclinations of those who view, and this added to the fact that in spite of their clownish they are AI acrobats, makes their act one to see and remember.

Other members of the Park vaudeville company are the Mederos, Sandart and the Melotte Sisters. There will be change in the bill, and the films will be on a new service, so that the difficulties encountered by the machinist and the annoyances suffered by the audiences last week will be missing.

PASTOR WOULD ABOLISH
ARMY AND NAVY

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—With a platform calling for many reforms, the Rev. W. Lathrop Meeker, recently pastor of the Unitarian Church in Revere, opened tonight the "Liberal League to Establish Justice," in a store at No. 48 Dudley street.

Having resigned his pulpit to run for Congress only to meet with defeat, the minister plans to interest Bostonians in the league by addresses, music and a question box each evening.

Among the purposes of the league are the arousing of demands by the people for direct legislation, Government ownership of all natural resources, tax on land only, Government ownership of free transportation and communication lines, abolition of all tariffs, abolition of all patents and abolition of the army and navy.
